Route 14 Stretch Second Highest In Traffic Toll

The 7,997 traffic accidents reported on Ohio's 16,000 miles of rural highways last year were concentrated on certain trouble spots, the State Bureau of Traffic and Safety reports.

In a summary prepared for State Highway Director Perry T. Ford, Harry E. Neal, the bureau's chief engineer, suggests that the findings be used for programs of widening, relocation and future construction.

More than one-fourth of all the rural traffic accidents happened on only three per cent of the state's rural highways, the report stated.

The highest number of accidents per million miles of travel in Ohio last year occurred on a strip of U. S. Route 33 one-tenth of a mile long on the Fairfield county line at Canal Winchester. The report showed 722 mishaps for each million miles.

Asked how a tiny section of highway could have millions of miles of travel in a year, Neal explained that under the survey system used each mile of road with a 24-hour traffic flow of 2,700 vehicles would aggregate a million miles of travel during the year.

Second worst trouble spot listed was the 4 mile section of State Route 14 on the Columbiana county line at Washingtonville, which had 27 accidents per million miles of use.

A portion of U. S. Route 50, a third of a mile long, between Cincinnati and Mariemont had the next worst record with 10.2 accidents per million miles of travel.

Total travel during 1945 was estimated at 4,300,700,000 miles, an increase of 20 per cent over the previous year. The average number of accidents throughout the state's rural highway system was 1.9 per million vehicles miles, the report said.

On longer sections of highway, the greatest number of accidents, 68, occurred on a six-mile strip of Route 4 between Fairfield (Greene county) and Montgomery county.

Forty-nine accidents on six miles of U. S. Route 42 from Mansfield to the Ashland county line was the second worst record in this category, followed by 41 accidents on 9.5 miles of U. S. Route 35 from Xenia to the Montgomery county line.

Of Ohio's 12 highway divisions, Division 8 with headquarters at Middletown had the greatest number of accidents, 429, while Division 10 with headquarters at Marietta had the highest accident rate, 4.9 accidents per million miles of annual travel.

CHECK BENTON RD. RESIDENCE BLAZE

Fire, caused by a defective chimney, caused slight damage to the W. W. Espy home on the Benton road in Perry township at 8:24 p. m. yesterday.

Firemen were called to the scene after the blaze had made its way from the first floor through to the roof. Chief Vincent Malloy said an unidentified man, in the house with firemen, was overcome by the smoke but was revived.

The department was called to three grass fires at 12:46, 12:50 and 1:40 p. m. yesterday at Fifth st. and Hawley ave., 621 N. Union ave., and 275 Roosevelt ave., respectively.

Allen, Former Salem Boy, Talks On France, Germany

During a year spent in Paris he became very fond of the city and of the French people, Albert Allen, just discharged from the army, told Rotarians at their meeting Tuesday in the Memorial building.

Allen, who toured European countries as an actor in USO shows after serving in the medical corps, was impressed with the beauty of Germany. He said the Germans were well-fed and hearty-looking, the result of stripping France of its food supplies.

The former Salem boy returned to this country about two weeks ago and is now visiting relatives and friends here. He has had wide experience as an actor in New York. Rev. Harry Barrett presented him to the club.

TWO AIRPLANE CRASHES KILL 33 PERSONS

Army Personnel Involved In Separate Mountain Accidents

(By Associated Press)

SAN FRANCISCO, March 20—Crashes of two big army planes in northern California mountains yesterday apparently took a death toll of 33 army and navy men, whose bodies ground crews labored in difficult terrain today to recover.

Twenty-three bodies, some of them buried several feet in snow, had been found early today at the scene of a C-47 crash in the Sierra Nevada, a mile from the ghost town of Hobart Mills and seven miles from Truckee, Calif.

Three others listed on the flight from Stockton, Calif., bound for Ogden, Utah, were believed in the yet inaccessible flight control compartment of the wreckage.

A ground squad pushed toward the wreckage of a B-29 which crashed with seven crewmen into the top of a 3,820-foot peak near Lodi, 30 miles southeast of San Francisco.

The bomber came from Hickam field, Honolulu. Its radio reported engine trouble several hours before the plane plummeted to earth 10 feet from the top of the peak.

Explosion In Air

Witnesses said they saw the C-47 explode in air, and Captain Harold Simer, commanding the Reno, Nev., indicated a wing, which had not been found, was blown off before the crash.

Snow piled as high as 12 feet in drifts. Army workers and volunteers who reached the C-47 wreckage by night by campfire and flashlight in continuing snow to recover the frozen bodies, some of which were severely mangled.

Plane parts were strewn over the rugged mountain for several hundred feet, with the fuselage and tail section 200 feet apart. The twin-engine C-47 did not burn.

The B-29 had been missing since early yesterday. A private plane pilot reported discovery of the wreckage late yesterday after an extensive search had been ordered.

The bomber pilot had reported his engines were "cutting up" as he approached the mainland and last radio contact with the ground was made at 2:05 a. m. (PST).

Some GM Workers Are Back On Job

(By Associated Press)

DETROIT, March 20—General Motors Corp. announced today that it is recalling a limited number of employees "as rapidly as possible" to ready its idle plants for production.

"Where it is agreeable to union shop committee construction workers, maintenance men and others necessary to ready the plants for production will be recalled as rapidly as possible," a spokesman said.

However, immediate resumption of normal production on the huge auto assembly lines were snaggled by a new company-union row over local grievances.

GM's production facilities idled for the 12th day, construction workers, maintenance men and others necessary to ready the plants for production will be recalled as rapidly as possible," a spokesman said.

The UAW, which late Tuesday notified the company that its members had approved the national phases of the strike settlement, was quick to condemn GM's stand.

The officers of the UAW-CIO had a clear understanding with the corporation that the strike settlement covered only national issues and that upon ratification of the national strike agreement, certain local matters remain on strike because their plant managements had failed to settle local issues satisfactorily, declared the union.

JOY-RIDERS ADMIT TEN AUTO THEFTS

City police and county probation officials yesterday apprehended two Salem High school boys, aged 16, who confessed to "borrowing" 10 automobiles in Salem within the last six weeks for "joy-rides."

The couple were placed on parole by Probation Officer Matt Currey.

The apprehension clears up the theft of 10 autos in Salem within that period. All of the cars were recovered soon after they were reported stolen to police.

None of the cars was damaged, police said, but were abandoned in various spots throughout the city after the two had ridden in them.

"Meeting-est" Year Looms For U. S. Convention Cities

By ARELENE WOLF, A.P. Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK, March 20—This is going to be the "meeting-est" year the United States has known since before the war.

All over the country, industrial and social organizations which called off wartime conventions in accordance with ODT regulations are itching to get together.

This pent-up gregarious feeling is putting the billion-dollar a year convention business back on its feet.

In New York alone, 500 conventions are scheduled, says Royal W. Ryan, executive director of the New York City Convention and Visitors' bureau.

Troop Movements Continue Despite Iran Plea To UNO

WASHINGTON, March 20—Russia today was reported continuing her troop maneuvers in Iran despite the United Nations' appeal to the Security Council for help in getting Soviet forces out of the country.

Late reports reaching officials here described the tense Middle Eastern situation as unchanged with main attention for future developments still directed toward the Kurdish areas of Iran, Turkey and Iraq.

Informants who say not be named said that Iran's appeal to the council, charging the presence of Red army troops in violation of a Soviet-Iranian-British treaty and interference by Soviet agents in Iranian affairs, had had absolutely no effect so far as could be told here on conditions inside Iran.

The formal charges appeared certain to gain council attention.

U. S. Support Foreseen
American officials predicted that this country will support fully the troubled nation's appeal to the council for prompt action.

Indications are that of the 11 council members, Iran will get an easy majority for putting its case on the agenda for early consideration in the sessions scheduled to open in New York next Monday.

Officials, who do not discount the possibility that Russia may object, however, since only a majority is required and since Russia normally can count only on Polish support to back up any opposition, the required seven votes for consideration seem assured.

The Iranian complaint was made public here late yesterday by UNO General Secretary Trygve Lie. Filed by Iranian Ambassador Hussein Ala, who has been designated by his government to plead the case before the Security Council, it made these two specific charges:

1. That Red army troops are remaining in Iranian territory beyond the March 2 deadline fixed under an Anglo-Soviet-Iranian treaty of January, 1942.

2. That Russia "is continuing to interfere in the internal affairs of Iran through the medium of Soviet agents, officials and armed forces."

Meanwhile, it appeared that in the face of these charges Russia is continuing to send reinforcements into Iran for objectives still described here as obscure.

Board Hears Complaints Of 300 Ohio Businessmen

CLEVELAND, March 20—Most of the complaints heard from 300 northern Ohioans by the Ohio small business commission "dealt with federal regulations," says the commission's chairman.

But "a number of pertinent issues were brought up to which the commission will give serious consideration," said State Senator Stanley McChesney of Nelsonville, who heads the 15-member commission.

The complaints about federal regulations, he added, will be referred to members of congress' small business committee.

The northern Ohio businessmen aired their views in a three-hour session before the commission yesterday.

meeting periods. Now there are more meetings than there are places to meet.

Convention arrangements in most cities are handled by counterparts of the New York bureau, which is supported by the commercial interests within the city which profit from the bookings—hotels, halls, restaurants and the like.

Most of these bureaus, Ryan says, are members of the international association of convention bureau managers, which holds an annual convention of its own.

Selling a group on the idea of making a particular city its convention headquarters is only half the job. Once the booking is made—and it's sometimes three years in advance—there's the matter of hotel rooms and other accommodations to be straightened out.

Ryan has what is probably his most important convention assignment on his hands in the UNO

City Council OKs Report Of Committee

Initial steps were taken last night by city council to place parking meters in the city.

Acting upon a recommendation of the safety committee that manually-operated meters, with a 12-minute to two-hour range, be installed here on a nine-month trial basis, council formally requested that legislation authorizing the installation of the meters be drawn up for action at its next meeting, April 2.

Safety Committee Chairman Arch Wentz reported that the committee, after careful consideration and consultation with the Salem civic committee, composed of representatives of civic and business groups, had decided to recommend installation of the meters.

He said the meters desired would run from a minimum of 12 minutes at a fee of one cent to a two-hour maximum for a dime.

The committee specified that manually operated meters be installed, as determined after a study of both the automatic and manual operating types. Warren has 500 of the type expected to be used here, Wentz said.

Income of $80 a Year
Wentz said figures showed that a meter provides an average income of $80 a year to the city. The instruments will be installed

In conformity with an existing ordinance, Salem will change time again, as in the past several years, on April 28, when city clocks will be shifted back one hour to provide an hour's more daylight during the summer months.

No action is necessary on city council's part to bring the time switch into effect, President of Council C. F. Zimmerman said today. An existing ordinance authorizes an automatic change.

here on a trial basis and can be removed at the end of the nine-month period without cost or loss to the city.

Action was hurried on the situation last night by a letter from the civic committee recommending installation of the meters and use of the first profits received from the collections for an increase in the city's police force.

Councilmen Harry Vincent, Ned Massa, and Charles Cornwall refused to vote on the meter report as they contended they were not familiar with the advantages and disadvantages of the two types of meters. Each said he could not favor manual meters, nor disapprove of them, upon information at hand. The report, however, was approved by a vote of the four other councilmen.

Legislation will now be drawn up and when passed by council the board of control will advertise for bids.

The number of meters, streets on which they will be installed and legislation governing enforcement will follow, Wentz indicated.

Delay Appropriation
Finance Chairman Vincent reported that the annual appropriation measure is not completed. He asked for a special session of council at 7:30 p. m. next Tuesday at city hall to act upon the financial measure, which must be passed so as to be in force by April 1, when

County Dairymen Discuss Test Work

Dr. D. C. Hyde, state veterinarian, spoke on "Area Bang Testing" when the Columbiana County Dairy council met last evening in the Salem High school auditorium.

The work of testing and accrediting counties for brucellosis or "Bang's Disease" has been slowed by a shortage of veterinarians, he said, stating that about 500 samples per week from this county can now be handled.

Dr. A. J. DePosset, federal veterinarian in charge of Ohio testing, spoke on the federal program to combat the disease, and Dr. C. Bond, representative of the State Department of Agriculture, discussed various phases of testing.

Floyd Lower, county agent, reported that the majority of Columbiana county farmers have registered for testing, but that it will be impossible to have an area test until preliminary testing has been completed.

Local veterinarians have begun their testing programs.

Farmers are urged to have their herds tested, since city markets soon will require milk from Bang-free cattle.

Galen Greenisen, president of the Dairy council, was chairman of last night's session.

PACKERS SAY MEAT SHORTAGE IMMINENT
(By Associated Press)
Drastic slaughter reductions and the threat of a critical meat shortage in this country were reported today by meat packers and retailers, who blamed the situation on OPA price ceilings and the growing pork market.

"We are facing a meat shortage such as we've never seen before," Joseph W. Stevens, field secretary of the Individual Retail Grocers and Meat Dealers association, said in St. Louis yesterday.

Packing companies claim they are unable to slaughter cattle at a profit under the OPA ceilings and that they cannot compete in buying cattle with black market buyers.

One company official said in Chicago yesterday that black market buyers were able to make an average profit of $50 a head.

State patrolmen made two arrests yesterday and investigated a minor accident in which no one was injured.

The accident occurred at 9 p. m. yesterday on Route 7 in Middleton, involving cars driven by William Whitehouse, 16, of East Palestine, and Howard Webber, 31, of New Waterford. Five passengers in the Whitehouse car were uninjured.

The cars collided as Webber turned off Route 7 into a side road, the patrol said.

William L. Jackson, 55, of Akron, was fined $50 and costs by Mayor R. R. Johnson for operating a car with improper plates.

Nicholas Dalch, 38, of Struthers, was fined $10 and costs for driving an overloaded truck by Justice Felix Butch in Lisbon.

Is OPA Working All Right?

National Association of Manufacturers, pleading for a return to the traditional price control exercised by the American housewife, makes its most powerful argument in the form of a question: Is OPA working satisfactorily?

What about white cotton shirts, butter, men's suits, low-priced dresses, children's play suits—and dozens of other items which are hard to get in spite of the fact there is no shortage of raw materials? "The reason the American public isn't getting the goods it wants today," charges N.A.M., "is that OPA price ceilings have driven them off the market. That is why we advocate the return of price control to the American housewife."

As Congress prepares to make its decision on continuing OPA for another year, perhaps with modifications to make it less unpalatable to its critics, the issue is theory vs. practice. In theory, as Stabilization Director Bowles is prepared to prove, OPA is indispensable. In practice, as millions of manufacturers, wholesalers, retailers and consumers are prepared to prove, OPA often is doing the contrary of what it is supposed to do in theory.

The only legitimate aim of government price control is to control prices in the interests of the whole nation. Anything that tends to raise prices, or to curtail the supply of things whose prices are to be controlled argues against itself far more powerfully than the critics of OPA. The agency is not struggling for survival against its critics, but against its own record.

The Lesson Stuck

One of the valuable by-products of World War II was the lesson that rubber is a vital commodity. The report made by the government's inter-agency committee on rubber accepts this and applies it to the problem of future security. The United States must never be caught short on rubber again.

The United States could have lost World War II by its natural rubber deficiency, a major objective of Japanese strategy. The disaster was narrowly averted at enormous expense by quick development of a synthetic industry. Chief question of future-rubber policy is the postwar fate of this industry.

The government committee's report advocates a balancing of the rubber supply between synthetic and natural rubber, with the former to be turned over as rapidly as possible to private ownership. Public security is to be guaranteed by stockpiling of natural rubber and maintenance of synthetic plants on a stand-by basis. The whole field of rubber supply is to be canvassed systematically by research under government encouragement and, in some instances, government subsidy. These necessities, obvious now, were not obvious just before the beginning of war. Government then, though aware of the imminence of a war which inevitably would cut off natural rubber sources in the Pacific, was not sufficiently impressed with rubber's role in the national economy to take more than nominal precautions—an error that came perilously close to crippling war production while creation of a synthetic industry hung in the balance.

Steady Hands

A more distinguished appointee to a more uncertain position than Bernard M. Baruch for the United Nations atomic energy commission is impossible to imagine. The job, whatever it turns out to be, is in steady hands.

Meanwhile, the United States as the nation with the main responsibility for international trusteeship of a secret whose misuse could wreck civilization is uncertain what to do. The original impulse to turn over what it knows to an international brotherhood has been cooled off by the failure of the brotherhood to materialize. There is a sharp clash of opinion between those who see atomic energy as a purely military device and those who see it as something belonging to all the people. Never before has a major discovery been accomplished so deliberately by using the full resources of science. Yet, because science was subsidized and even directed by military authority in the project, the latter now claims continuing rights that scientists are reluctant to grant. These are the puzzles that must be straightened out before the United Nations atomic energy commission can function.

Old Bob Died In 1925

Aside from Wisconsin's internal politics, named as the immediate reason for the breakup of the Progressive party, the real reason for the party's decision to join the Republicans is the fact its founder has been dead for 21 years.

Robert M. LaFollette built up with oratory and integrity one of the most loyal followings in American politics. He was assisted by the stubborn corruption of the major parties. To this day, the original members of his following revere his name and principles. But a fifth of a century is a long time. Lacking a dynamic leader, the Progressives in Wisconsin and the out-of-state converts who gave Old Bob one-sixth of the presidential votes in 1924 were held together by nothing but their common memory of the movement's founder. To give the heirs to his political legacy their due, the wonder is not that Progressivism has lost its momentum but that they kept it going under its dwindling steam for a fifth of a century.

It takes little imagination to find a parallel in what is happening to the personal following of Franklin D. Roosevelt. In less than a year after his death, the Roosevelt following is falling away from the heirs. It will not take 21 years to complete the break-up of the minority that believed Mr. Roosevelt could do no wrong but already are wondering if his political successors can do any right.

Project Habakkuk

As one now-it-can-be-told revelation follows another, we realize increasingly the debt that we owe to the fortitude, the steadfastness, and the tact of those high military leaders who had to deal with presidents and premiers during the war.

Winston Churchill in particular seems to have retained to a remarkable degree the small boy's love of playing general. He was always popping up with some plausible project that would have gummed the works. Because of his position and his personality he could not be defied. It is much to the credit of the generals and the admirals that such wild schemes as Project Habakkuk—an artificial iceberg with propellers, to serve as a gigantic aircraft carrier—were evaded.

It would be easy to criticize the British premier's amateur interference and to point out that at times it threatened the progress of vital projects. But Churchill's essential greatness, the same qualities that made him the supreme symbol of embattled democracy, came from the very imagination, daring, initiative, vigor, and persistence that were reflected in his intriguing if unsound military proposals.

We took him for better or for worse. In spite of the Projects Habakkuk, we got more than our money's worth.

The Stars Say

For Thursday, March 21.

OPPORTUNITY continues to knock at the door and with insistent promise of expansion, growth, a steady advance in putting over important propositions or ambitions, in which the issues are vital. Nevertheless, these demand shrewd, logical and well-calculated plans, operations and tactics, and these seem undermined by a sinister force in which indecision, wrangling, acrid dispute and other defeating influences or circumstances likely to complicate good prospects.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves in a state known legally as status quo, with matters holding their own, minus any sign of notable progress or gratification. A situation is seen in which badly-laid plans, indecision, lack of enterprise or initiative may retard or complicate prospects of definite growth. Serious calculation and straightforward methods and plans, with help from influential sources, may keep affairs well in hand.

A child born on this day may have ability and good prospects for a progressive and happy career, but its tendency to tear apart, wrangle, dispute or shirk may prove its undoing.

GUARDING YOUR HEALTH

Nosebleed, Sign of Many Ills

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.
NOSEBLEEDS may all seem alike to the average man, but to the doctor they can tell many different stories.

At times, nosebleed may indicate the presence of serious disease, but fortunately, in nine cases out of ten, nosebleed means only minor rupture of the delicate blood vessels of the front part of the septum or cartilage which forms the partition between the two nasal chambers.

In this area, there is a real network of veins which lie close to the surface and are normally distended with blood. Understanding this, it is easy to see how even slight things such as coughing, sneezing, blowing the nose or even bending forward may be enough to cause one of the vessels to break open.

Bleeding may be profuse and continue for a long time even when the break in the vein is barely visible. In other parts of the body, when a vein is injured, it tends to shrink back and bury itself in the surrounding tissues, which compress it and thus help to stop the bleeding.

In the septum, the veins are fixed to the surrounding cartilage and thus cannot shrink when broken, but remain open, thus permitting a free flow of blood until a blood clot is formed and seals the opening.

Picking Nose

Picking the nose often results in bleeding because this part of the septum is so easily injured. The fingernail breaks the veins near the surface of the lining membrane. Not only does blood flow from the nose, but bleeding into the lining membrane also occurs.

Secretions in the nose dry and stick in this area and persons are tempted to remove the dried secretions with the finger and thus new hemorrhages begin. If the process continues, an ulcer or sore of the mucous membrane develops. Then, the underlying cartilage may be damaged and finally an opening all the way through the septum occurs.

Bleeding Starts

Thus, when nosebleed starts, the first thing the doctor does is to examine this portion of the nose. If the bleeding point is seen, he can put pressure on it with a cotton pack or a piece of gauze, or the pack may be put into the nose and then pressure put on the septum by squeezing the nostrils together from the outside. It is suggested that the pack be left in on the bleeding side for about 24 hours.

After the bleeding has stopped, the doctor may touch the bleeding area with chromic acid. This

Hear Artist At Meeting Of Travelers

Fred Yost of Youngstown, president of the Ohio Water Color society, and until recently artist-in-resident of the Youngstown Butler Art Institute, was guest speaker at a meeting of the Travelers club yesterday afternoon in the public library assembly room.

In reviewing some of the history of picture painting, he said that water coloring was probably the oldest method known.

Winner of many prizes in the annual New Year shows, this year he received second award in water color for his "Western Landscape." His "House on Ridge" oil painting was purchased by Friends of American Art for the public school system of Youngstown.

Mrs. L. P. Metzger presided and introduced Mrs. Charles McCormick, who presented the speaker. Approximately 75 members and guests attended.

The club's 1945-46 program under the title, "The Passing Parade," in celebration of its 50th anniversary, will close with next Tuesday's session when "An Easter Parade" will be featured.

Guest duty will be observed. The committee in charge is composed of Mrs. McCormick, Mrs. Eugene Young, Miss Helen French and Miss Lillian Schroeder.

Before entering kindergarten every child should have a thorough check-up of his eyes.

See Television On Commercial Scale Within Six Months

COLUMBUS, March 20—Commercial television within six months and home receiving sets costing $150 and up are foreseen by delegates to the sixth annual broadcast engineers' conference in session here today.

H. E. Rhea of Camden, N. J., an engineer of the radio corporation of America, predicted that a new camera, 100 times more sensitive than pre-war equipment, would help make this possible.

The camera is part of a portable television broadcasting setup on display here. Its super-sensitivity eliminates the need for hot, brilliant lighting effects, Rhea said. The new camera uses an electronic view finder to operate under lighting conditions practically impossible to optical finders.

Rhea said portable television equipment would be available late this summer and predicted at least 10 more television sets would begin operating this year, and 50 more in 1947. Home receivers will be on the market at $150 and up, he forecast.

The conference is sponsored by the electrical engineering department of Ohio State University and the University of Illinois in co-operation with the National Association of Broadcasters and the Institute of Radio Engineers.

Coach Fred Cope Has Higher Hopes For SHS Track Team This Season as Workouts Begin With 11 Veterans on Hand

Eight Meets Scheduled In Spring Card For Quakers

With the first glimpse of spring weather, Coach Fred Cope's thoughts turn to track.

This year Cope's first track thoughts are brightened somewhat by the fact that he will have 11 veterans back from 1945, around whom to mold a Salem High school powerhouse.

On the schedule so far this year are three dual meets, one triangular affair, two district relays, the annual county meet and the Northeastern Ohio district meet here on May 18.

The Salem tracksters will meet Youngstown Rayen in a dual meet here April 12, will match wares with Louisville at Louisville on April 18 and will entertain Boardman's squad here April 23.

The Quakers will take part in the Uhrichville relays April 27 and in the Canton McKinley relays at Canton May 4. Warren and Struthers will appear here against Salem April 30.

On Friday night, May 10, the 43rd annual Columbiana county meet's stadium, Salem played host to the affair last year.

The district meet, May 18, climaxes the season here.

Cope indicated that a dual meet with Youngstown, South may be arranged sometime during the season.

At the present time, following a track meeting in the High school yesterday, Cope has 52 men working out and expects that total to jump to around 75 when all the football and basketball men are finally out.

Coach Cope will be assisted by Ben Barrett, Frank Tarr, Joe Kelley and Allen Farrell of the Junior High school, this year.

Barrett is foregoing spring football workouts here and is requesting that all his football charges participate in the track workouts to keep in shape. Many of the gridiron stars are main powers in Cope's track team this year.

Although final assignments of events are far from settled, Cope has a number of prospects who are appearing well in certain events and he terms his hopes at the present time "far better than they were in 1945 at this time."

Lettermen include Bob Payer (discus); Dan Crawford (440); Mutt Roesler (pole vault); John Stotta (hurdles); Bob Little (half mile); Ansley Mitchell (half mile); Capt. Bill Ward (hurdles, relays, sprints); Bob Boone (hurdles and relays); Cleo Thorne (mile run); Howard Herrington (440 and pole vault); and Dick Gottschling (relays).

Promising Sophomores this year, besides Payer and Dan Crawford, include Pete Cain (shot put); John Huddleston (low hurdles); Bill Urbanowicz (distance); Dick Jones (distance); Lee Ward, Jack Wilson and Jack Lozier (middle distance events); Dick Theiss and Ted Boone (jumps); Don Burkholder (weights) and Virg Kelly (pole vault).

Junior prospects are numerous also. Besides Gottschling, Herrington, Thorne, Boone and Snyder, Cope expects to use the following in the bracketed events: Don Coppock (440); John Rush (distance); Don Johnson (distance); Tom Holzbach (distance); Ray Pierce (weights); Bill Parks (sprints); Frank Hoopes (distance); Bob Hodge (relays); Frank Mangus (relays) and John Ursu (distance) and Jim Jensen (pole vault).

Dick Tolson, Jerry Muskatian and Tom Theil are promising Freshmen in the distance events. Don Stoffer and Ray Yeager look good in the 440. Cope says, while Ted Kisko is a jumper, Jerry Miller tough at the relays, Tommy Minor adept at pole vaulting and Walter Ehrhart slated for weight and dash events. Tommy Scullion, a distance man, and Dick Swartz, a dash man, also are out. All are first year men.

Danny Smith, a Senior, will try out in the sprint events, and Bob

Keltner Says His Stand Not 'Holdout'

MILWAUKEE, March 20—Ken Keltner, third baseman for the Cleveland Indians, says he is not a holdout.

Keltner, who just returned to his home here from Shoshone, Calif., after his discharge from the Navy, said a report from Clearwater, Fla., that he had sent back a contract unsigned to Vice President Roger Peckinpaugh of the Cleveland club was not true. He said he has not received a contract.

"So far, the only arrangement I have had with the club officials was verbal," Keltner said, "and the figure offered me was not enough."

He declined to disclose the salary he seeks, but added he would not join the Indians at Clearwater until his terms were met.

"I am not a holdout," Keltner said. "I am just waiting for a contract that meets my terms."

GOODRICH BLASTS GREENFORD, EARNS WAY INTO FINALS

Seek Round Robin Crown In Tilt With Vets Monday Night

Coming back powerfully with a strong scoring attack in the second stanza, which netted 20 points, the Goodrich quintet smothered Greenford by a 55-31 count last night at the Memorial building, thus earning the right to battle the American Legion for the Class A round robin championship.

The visitors had things pretty much their own way in the first period, flashing a smooth-working attack which gave them an 8-6 lead going into the second quarter.

Goodrich' firehouse tactics began to count for plenty of points, however, and the slight advantage held by Greenford soon vanished in the face of it.

Take Comfortable Lead
Floor length passes and well-executed "feeder" plays, especially on the part of Tom Nedelka who was directly responsible for a host of Goodrich scores, provided Goodrich with a 26-17 lead at halftime.

Greenford came back to chop the advantage to seven points several times, following the intermission, but their accuracy failed them and the Sabers five led 43-24 at the three quarter mark.

Bill and "Mutt" Schaeffer provided the spark in the winners' attack as they racked up 17 and 12 points respectively. Riehl was high man for Greenford with a dozen points.

Goodrich will meet the Legion at 8 p. m. Monday for the tourney title, the winner qualifying for the city playoffs. Goodrich and the Ohio Grill are already eligible, having topped regular season rounds.

Nazarenes Capture First Playoff Tilt

Demoralizing the Cavaliers with a second-half exhibition of dazzling accuracy, the Nazarenes captured the first game of the Class B city playoffs last night at the Memorial building by a 41-27 count.

The Church five flashed its best brand of ball since it won the first round championship with eight straight wins while the Cavaliers appeared groggy after halftime, when they trailed by only three points.

Francis McLaughlin captured scoring honors for the winners with a 13-point spree. Jerry and Jack Hanna also were big cogs in the functioning of the Nazarene scoring machine. Louie Juliano, with eight points, led the Cavaliers.

The second game of the best two-of-three set will be played at 8:30 p. m. Monday at the Memorial building.

Middie-Polar Bear Final May Be 1946 Version Of 1944's Overtime Classic

By HAROLD HARRISON, Ohio A.P. Sports Editor

COLUMBUS, March 20—If history repeats itself, the customers will see quite a ball game Friday night when Middletown and Toledo Woodward clash at Toledo in the second game of the final Class "A" Ohio High school basketball tournament.

These two schools last met in the championship game of the 1944 tournament. Middletown jumped into a 14 to 2 lead and then wiped out a three-point deficit in the last 34 seconds to knot the score at the end of the regulation playing time.

In the overtime the Middies came from three points behind again to win, 50 to 47, and take their first and only state title.

Woodward's appearance in the finals this year comes as a surprise and therein also lies a story. Last year Coach Homer Hanham came up with another great team—some considered it even better than his 1944 aggregation and the Polar Bears looked like a shoe-in to the final tournament. But disaster struck in the district and Woodward sat out the final tourney.

This year the Polar Bears dropped four games during the regular season and were decided underdogs to both Toledo Maconber and Rossford in the district. The situation reversed itself, however. Woodward still is in the running and Maconber and Rossford will be cast in the role of spectators Friday.

Middletown, meanwhile, has become almost legendary in Ohio High school basketball. The Middies now have won 24 in a row this season. Their only defeat in their last 88 games was to Bellevue in the championship game of the 1945 tournament. They haven't been beaten in a regularly scheduled game in more than two years.

This year, the Middies are playing under a new coach—George Houck, who took over the job after Royner Greene became assistant coach at Cornell university. But their amazing play, particularly on defense, has continued without a break.

They've been pressed seriously only three times in 24 games. Those tilts were the 34 to 31 triumph over Hamilton Public and 34 to 30 conquests of Newark and Springfield. It might be noted that in later games Middletown whipped Hamilton, 42 to 20, and Springfield, 54 to 25.

During the regular season Woodward was beaten twice by Toledo Maconber and once each by Sandusky and Canton Lehman. The only one-sided setback, however, was that by Lehman and in that game John Kornowa, ace of the Polar Bear attack, didn't play. The defeat by Sandusky was avenged in regional tournament competition last week.

The Middies and the Polar Bears played only one mutual foe—Toledo Devilbiss. Woodward whipped Devilbiss twice, 34 to 31, and 35 to 28. Middletown did it once, 39 to 29.

Middletown can be depended on to start Don Bolton and Omer Elevins at forwards, Paul Lansaw at center and Milton Wells and Robert Keller at guards. All except Keller have taken turns at leading the Middies in scoring this year and Keller delights in playing the "feeder" role.

"He can shoot well," Coach Houck says, "but he'd rather feed the ball to the other boys."

Last week, an overwhelming All Ohio choice this year, is the ace of a defense that once again has limited Middie foes to less than 30 points a game.

Hanham, who has been coaching at Woodward since 1935, probably will start Irv Mower and Jack Kennedy at forwards, Chuck Allen at center and Cal Katz and Kornowa at guards. Allen, Mower and Kennedy top the six foot mark in height.

Observers call it a "superbly coached" combination.

Middletown will be playing in a final tournament for the fifth time and it will be Woodward's fourth appearance in the last series of games—all under the Hanham regime.

the temporary appropriation passed early in the year, expires. At that time it is expected that the answer to a pay increase request by city employees will be supplied. Vincent indicated that city officials would meet with representatives of the employees before Tuesday to settle the wage and salary question.

An ordinance authorizing the moving of a traffic signal from Franklin st. and S. Ellsworth ave. to the intersection of Railroad st. and S. Ellsworth ave. was passed under suspension of rules.

President C. P. Zimmerman announced that Ned Massa, recently appointed to succeed J. Don Guiley, who resigned, will serve as chairman of the ordinance committee and as a member of the lighting, safety and parks and playgrounds committees.

City Engineer F. S. Barckhoff reported that enlargement of a sewer in an alley on the north side of E. Third st. in the 1000 block, would cost the city approximately $325.

Installation of 12-inch sewer tile will be necessary there to handle heavy rain water flow. A six-inch tile is now in service.

Street Paving Sought

Barckhoff was asked to furnish an estimate of the cost to property owners and the city of paving Rose ave., between E. State st. and E. Third st. Improvement there has been petitioned by owners.

A letter from the city planning commission voiced unanimous approval of the abandonment of an alley adjoining the Walter L. Gray garage property, W. State st. Gray has offered a strip of property west of the present alley to open a new alley. Solicitor Henry L. Reese was instructed to prepare proper legislation to bring about the change.

Atty. W. Edmund Peters appeared before council in behalf of a Newgarden st. property owner who claims two storm sewers are emptying on his property, located between Prospect and Arch sts., damaging his land as well as making it unusable for farming.

Peters told the city solons either the situation would have to be corrected or his client would file legal action against the city. The matter was referred to the solicitor and city engineer for consultation with the property owner.

meeting in New York. For the security council meeting next week, he obtained 500 twin bedrooms, 25 suites and 25-50 single rooms—about one per cent of the transient rooms in New York.

The general assembly meeting in September will require about 2,500 rooms for anywhere from four to six weeks, he estimates. All the UNO accommodations have been dispersed among about 200 hotels in three different price ranges.

Chicago Claims Laurels
"Chicago claims leadership as the nation's first convention city," Ryan says, "but New York is pretty close."

Prime requisites for a top convention city, he adds, are its physical set-up and facilities in the way of hotels and meeting places, its proximity to transportation, and its geographic location and nearness to other population centers.

In addition to the big cities, conventions are held practically everywhere in the country, and the composition of the groups ranges from the most scholarly scientists to Indians meeting for an inter-tribal ceremonial.

There are conventions of beekeepers, a national crushed stone meeting, a haymakers' get-together, and a clean life group that rounds up its members to discuss matters that clean-lifers are interested in.

But it isn't just the desire of convention-hungry people to get together that's going to make this and next year a boomtime for meetings, Ryan believes. This year, he says, commercial and industrial organizations more than ever before need to meet and discuss matters of mutual interest—particularly wartime innovations in methods and materials, and problems of peacetime reconversion.

Gored By Bull, Dies

MASILLON, March 20—Gored by a bull in a pen at the Massillon State hospital's farm, Harold House, 44-year-old patient, died a short time later. Acting Coroner John R. Rohrbough of Stark county reported today.

Used Car Buyers Warned Of Illegal Transactions

CLEVELAND, March 20—Prospective buyers of used automobiles should proceed cautiously when a dealer turns down full payment and insists on a financing plan, says Walter J. Heddeshimer, attorney with the Cleveland Office of Price Administration.

"That type of transaction is illegal," said the attorney, "as it places an additional burden on the purchaser."

He advised returning servicemen to ask for a warranty certificate when used car dealers charge a 25 per cent markup over OPA ceiling prices for making repairs to put their cars in first class operating condition.

Then the buyers should check to see that the repairs actually have been made, he added.

The Shangri-La with its F6F Drone and Control planes is pictured at Norfolk, preparing for the operations in May.
